While Advocacy-Health Alliances or Medical-Legal Partnerships are still in their infancy in Australia, they are best exemplified in the relatively long-standing medical-legal partnership movement in the United States. These partnerships have not only broken down the barriers to accessible legal services to people experiencing health issues, they have demonstrated the socio-legal impacts on health and the associated health benefits of effective legal advocacy on behalf of patients.

Featuring internationally renowned speakers, the symposium will:

- Catalyse thinking and practice concerning Advocacy-Health Alliances
- Form and strengthen networks; and
- Identify steps for advancing Advocacy-Health Alliances in Australia.
